There's a lot of interest in insects in alfalfa this fall. Unfortunately there will be no shortage of them. These are the varieties that are somewhat resistant to the alfalfa weevil.

This means it will be spring before a seed supply of these varieties become available.

More than 85 percent of all businesses in the American people are small firms with 100 employees or less. A quick look at business failure and disconnection rates shows that there is only a problem among the small businesses. Farms are the group of small businesses and it doesn't take an expert to tell you what's happening to farms in this area.

Insects that destroy flowers, vegetables and fruits must be controlled. Without pollination of desirable insects there would be no fruits. Yet improper use of insecticides kills the desirable insects.

An adult lady beetle feeds on aphids, mealy bugs, and white flies. An active adult may eat from several dozen to several hundred aphids in a day.

One observer reports he found a dragonfly with over 100 mosquitoes in its mouth at one time.

The dragonfly has also been checked, flying at speeds of nearly 60 miles an hour. No wonder he can catch moths, flies and bettles.

Some nutritionists say that one of the most important developments in Virginia livestock feeding is the use of whole wheat.

Depressed wheat prices have made whole wheat feeding practical and economical.

Beef and dairy rations can handle 25 percent wheat, when coarsely cracked. Hogs can use up to 50 percent wheat.

Remember wheat is higher in protein than any other grain we grown.

It is reasonable to expect non-irrigated tobacco and corn to be delayed for harvest. Crops that are adequately supplied with nitrogen but received inadequate moisture do not pick up the plant food. When moisture does become available the nitrogen greens the foliage and delays harvest.

Pre-mature harvest of tobacco causes it to cure green and premature silage results in low quality feed.

'Sultan' Has Many Riders

It's horseback riding time for 4-Hers as Sally Oblinger, instructor, helps young riders to learn to mount properly. Sally's horse is named "Sultan", one of several loaned to Holiday Lake 4-H Camp last week, as campers enjoyed a varied program of outdoor activities including horseback riding, swimming, archery, craft work and many more. Doris Mays (not shown) is another riding instructor working with the young people from Amherst and Appomattox counties.

Field Director For Girl Scouts Is Named

Miss Betty Jane Rau has been named as Field Director for Girl Scouting in Appomattox, Amherst, Charlotte and Buckingham counties.

She had a part-time job collecting weather data. She was on the Executive Board of the Athletic Association, a member of the Vocational Guidance Committee, the Curry Nature Sanctuary Committee and several other committees.

Miss Rau was a Girl Scout in the Temple Youth Group and a member of the B'nai Brith Girls. She served as a swimming and hiking counselor at a summer camp. She studied Medieval Art in Europe one summer.

Mrs. Priscilla Tarplee, Personnel Services Director says, "We are delighted to have Betty on the staff."

PAMPLIN PLANS CLUB PICNIC

The annual Ruritan Community picnic will be held Friday 6:30 p.m. at the ball park.

Have A Taste Of Sumac Tea

Miss Mary Hille McCoy, Program leader for Home Economics, has a class of interested, but perhaps dubious tasters, for her "foods from nature" class at Holliday Lake 4-H Camp last week. For the boys and girls there were recipes for rose hip tea, "coffee" from dandelion root or chicory and many others including Sumac Ade - the nature lover's choice over commercial drinks. If it comes to surviving in the wild, these campers will no doubt have a much better chance at it than their un-prepared buddies at home, says Miss McCoy. She suggests that they spread the word on how to eat safely and well in the fields and forests.
